MISCELLANEOUS READING.

AN EXTRAORDINARY CASE of a girl concealing her sex for many years, has been brought to light at Peitiers, France. Augustine, alhas Augustus Baudouin, a young person of HOUSE, No. 25, King-street, we beg leave to call 17, was known in the town and neighborthe attention of farmers to our large and well se- hood as an active lad, and had been in place in respectable houses as "odd boy." This individual was lately tried for robbery, and while in prison, the authorities conceived some suspicions, and ascertained her to be a female. On being asked what reason she had for wearing men's clothes, she said she had observed that man got their living easier are also preparing for the manufacture of than women; but she refused to give any information as to her birth and parentage.-She was removed to the female wards, but her repugnance to appear in woman's attire among her fellew prisoners was so great, that she committed suicide by hanging herself to

CHEMICALS, de., an iron bar with a pocket handkerchief. "Annie Laurie."-Mr. Chambers says the verses of this song, which are in a style wonderfully chaste and tender for their age, were written by Mr. Douglas, of Finland, upon Annie, one of the four daughters of Sir Robert Laurie, first Baronet of Maxwelton, by his second wife, who was a daughter of Riddle, of Minto. As Sir Robert was ereated a Baronet in the year 1785, it is probable that the verses were composed about the end of the 17th, or the beginning of the 18th century. It is painful to record that, notwithstanding the ardent and chivalrous affection displayed by Mr. Douglas in his poem, he did not obtain the heroine for a

BEWITCHED .- A lady in one of the rural districts of Dauphin county, Pa., whose mind had been considerably deranged by a heavy pecuniary loss she had sustained, by some PLEMENT and SEED BUSINESS, MORTON | means got the impression that the little tumors which appeared on the top of her head were filled with witches, and insisted upon their being opened. Her physician at first endeavored to remove the errorneous impression, but finding it impossible to change her opinion, he permitted himself to be persuaded that his patient was right, opened the tumors, permitting the witches to escape-as the lady supposed-whereupon she soon recovered her wonted health and spirits.
